

Writing in the Trumbull Public Schools

In the Trumbull Public Schools, we believe that:

- Students benefit from writing regularly in multiple genres across all subject areas.
- Students benefit from participating in all phases of the writing process: pre-writing, drafting, revising, editing, and publishing.
- Students benefit from developing their own voices by making choices when they write.
- Students benefit from conferring with their teacher and their peers about their writing.
- Students benefit from celebrating writing as a joyful expressive process.
